

ALBERT-LUDWIGS-
UNIVERSITÄT FREIBURG

M.Sc. in Bioinformatics and Systems Biology

Modern molecular biology, biotechnology and medicine depend on computational biology approaches. Our Master of Science program offers the chance to become involved in the exciting interface area of computer science, mathematics and life sciences.

University of Freiburg,
Germany

You hold a B.Sc. in biology, computer science or natural sciences?

Apply now to provide the academic basis for your successful career in research and industry.

- profit from small classes and individual supervision
- study at one of the oldest and top-ranked research universities in Germany
- live in one of Germany's most beautiful and appealing cities, close to Black Forest, Switzerland and France

The international bilingual curriculum

includes topics of:

- Bioinformatics → Biology
- Systems Biology → Mathematics
- Computer Science

The Albert-Ludwigs-University Freiburg

- founded in 1457
- selected by the German government as one of nine "Excellence Universities"
- repeatedly top-ranked for education and research

How to apply and further information

<http://mbsb.biologie.uni-freiburg.de>

